Margot O'Neil

Margot O'Neil has had an appreciation of all things relating to art since she was a young child. Throughout her education, art and its history was always a part of her curriculum. However, it was not until her retirement that she began to pursue her interest in oil painting. Margot became a member of the Peninsula Arts Society and commenced painting under the tutelage of Colin Johnson and later John Bredl and Brian Armstrong.

Plein Air painting is one of Margot's favourite past times, and to encourage others to share this passion, she arranges frequent trips throughout Victoria for members and friends of the Peninsula Arts Society.

Margot has held several joint exhibitions, including "Three Sheilas and a Bloke" at Malvern Artists gallery in 2000 and from 2004 to 2009 at Pier Street gallery, Dromana, with fellow members of "The Peninsula Palettes" (a small group of dedicated artists from the Mornington Peninsula)

Margot has received awards for Best oil at Derinya Art Show in 2001, and highly commendeds at: "St Christopher's" 2002. 'Kunyang" 2003, "Korumburra" 2005 and "Deniliquin" 2006.

Margot also exhibits and sells at many Art Exhibitions throughout Victoria including the prestigious Camberwell Art Show.
