

Profile
Rayma Woodhouse

I had always been interested in art having been inspired by an uncle who was a great collector of Australian paintings.

About five years ago I attended a lecture, by Colin Johnson, at the MPRG in conjunction with the 'Moist' exhibition. I was fascinated and felt I had to 'have a go' myself. Water Colour Painting has since become one of my passions in life.

I lived overseas for seventeen years, where I was able to pursue my other great interest, photography.

Fifteen years ago, we retired to the Mornington Peninsula and love living here.

I attend painting classes with Colin Johnson and do his workshops whenever I can. I also enjoy demonstrations at PAS.
